

B-2 The Washington Star Friday, October 21, 1977

VENTURING INTO a still new but rapidly mushrooming field, a General Services Administration federal credit union here has begun offering pre-paid legal insurance to its members.

For $100 per year, payable quarterly, they and their families can obtain no-charge legal services covering such things as real estate transactions, simple wills, probates, divorces, separations and annulments — plus a lot of others.

In addition, the insurance covers traffic violations (excluding parking tickets), civil actions up to $1,000 and car insurance claims to the same limit.